

Magic

Age 7

Once upon a time, there lived a boy named Andy and his best friend, Joyce. One day, Joyce came to Andy's house but Andy was away. Andy's Dad told her that Andy was watching a performance somewhere. Joyce knew that Andy was in the forest. She followed him into the forest and found him watching a magic show. Joyce liked the magician and said to Andy, "Let's come here every day!" Andy said, "Yes, I like your idea." They went back home after the show. The following day, they went to watch the show again, and did so for many days.

One day, however, when they went into the forest to watch the magician again, he was not there. They wished for him to come back. While Andy and Joyce were walking in the forest, Andy told Joyce that his fairy godmother had said that magic is always there if you look for it. All of a sudden, the fairy godmother came out and said, "I will make your dream come true." And she did it!

The next day Andy and Joyce went to see the magician again, and found him doing his show as before. They went every day thereafter. Both of them were happy ever after.
